Master Philosophy, Politics and Economics

Does globalization undermine social solidarity? Does populism threaten our democracies? How do we encourage corporate social responsibility? And how can we rise to the threat of climate change? The PPE Master's will equip you with the central theoretical and methodological tools to understand global challenges and assess proposals to address them.

Our world today faces complex challenges that cannot be tackled by one discipline alone. To devise sustainable solutions, we require a holistic approach that cuts across boundaries. Our selective Master's in PPE offers a truly integrated approach that combines tools and methods from philosophy, economics and political theory.
